

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE
April 15, 2011

Aventure Aviation
Peachtree City
Georgia - USA

Aventure Aviation Named Finalist for Prestigious Award

Aventure Aviation is excited to announce the company has been selected as a finalist for the Aircraft Technology Engineering & Maintenance (ATE&M) Award in the category of “Best Spare Parts Provider”.

The ATE&M Awards recognize companies in several categories. Some of last year’s winners included GA Telesis (Best Spare Parts Provider), Delta Tech Ops (Best Maintenance Repair & Overhaul facility in the Americas), and Lufthansa Technik (Best All Round Maintenance Repair & Overhaul facility). Nominees are selected through an online voting process open to all aviation professionals located worldwide. This year, the ATE&M Awards Gala Dinner will coincide with the 2011 Airline Purchasing & Maintenance Expo on May 4th at the Millennium Gloucester Hotel in London.

Aventure Aviation President, Zaheer Faruqi, credits the employees for the company’s accomplishments. “The Aventure team has always been the secret to our success. Great teamwork enables us to really get to know our customers and provide excellent service. We are dedicated to providing our customers only the best”. This award is among several achievements in recent years for Aventure Aviation. In 2009 the company was named by Small Business Administration as ‘Exporter of the Year for the entire Southeast U.S.’, and in 2006 was a finalist for the Georgia Governor’s International Award.

“To be selected from among the many spare parts suppliers in the world is a proud achievement and honor”, states Melissa Coleman-Grina, Sr. Director of Sales. “The Aventure team deeply thanks its customers and friends in the industry for voting and for their continuous support throughout the years”.

About ATE&M

Founded in 1992, Aircraft Technology Engineering & Maintenance (ATE&M) Magazine has covered the latest technological advances and maintenance trends in commercial aviation. UBM Aviation Publications produces ATE&M eight times a year, including special show editions for the Farnborough and Pairs Air Shows, plus the Airline Purchasing Expo. For more, visit <http://www.ubmaviationnews.com>.

About Aventure Aviation

Offering its customers only the highest quality products and services, Aventure has established itself as a leading aviation parts supplier and services company through continuous expansion of its resources and facilities. Available around-the-clock for Aircraft On Ground (AOG) requirements, Aventure provides products and services ranging from aircraft spares, parts distributorship, aircraft sales & leasing, customized Parts Repair & Overhaul management programs and solutions for Customer’s surplus inventories. Aventure has sales offices in the United States, Canada, Latvia and Japan, and sales representatives based in South America, Europe, the Middle East, the Indian subcontinent, Africa, and Asia-Pacific. Aventure is accredited by the Aviation Suppliers Association, ASA-100 standards, and abides by the guidelines set forth for a parts supplier company in accordance with FAA Advisory Circular AC00-56A. Since its inception in 2001, Aventure has received inventory for resale from major flag carrier airlines and several other operators from across the globe. Aventure stocks and sells parts for Airbus, Boeing, Bombardier, Raytheon Business Jets and Turbo-prop aircraft. Aventure Aviation’s military division offers support for the Lockheed C-130 and L-100 Hercules aircraft. For further information, please contact Melissa Coleman-Grina at 1-770-632-7930 or info@aventureaviation.com.

