HazMat Identification

Hazmat shippers need to be specially certified; but everyone needs to be able to identify it to make sure it is referred to the correctly-certified shippers – this includes personnel who handle parts and it includes sales personnel who need to know when hazmat may require special handling in order to reach the customer. This class will review the nine classes of hazardous material, explain how to recognize them, and clarify what sort of aircraft parts are commonly found in each of the nine classes. This class is for everyone!
